Videoconferencing

Videoconferencing delivers fast, cost-effective communication between two or more locations and allows participants to see and hear each other in a real-time interactive (virtual face to face) environment.

Use of videoconferencing seamlessly allows presentation of documents, objects, demonstrations, and high quality video to connected locations.

What's in it for you?

Videoconferencing can save time and money on meetings, professional forums, specialist consultations and interviews. Training and face-to-face instruction are also cost efficient when delivered to metro, regional, rural/remote and/or overseas locations.

Why use Videoconferencing?

Videoconferencing gives you person-to-person, audio-visual and interactive contact that enhances the communication of your important business and training messages.

Videolinq TAFE Queensland can tailor a schedule of videoconferencing opportunities that will add vision to your communication needs for training and business.

Where can I access Videolinq sites?

Videolinq TAFE Queensland can offer use of a full suite of virtual offices in over 120 locations throughout Queensland with access to many more sites within Australia, as well as overseas. The Videolinq Network overcomes distance and isolation and can be accessed at short notice for urgent and important communications.

What does it cost?

There are no usage costs across Videolinq TAFE sites. Connections to sites outside the Videolinq Network may involve room hire and transmission costs. Please contact Videolinq Office to discuss your particular requirements.

Support is available!

Onsite personnel are available at all Videolinq Network locations to help with your conference booking and set-up requirements. Videolinq is supported by a centralised 1800 Helpdesk facility to deal with any technical issues.
